

The Heart of a Case: A Master Class in Creativity and Rigor with Miranda Castro

In this brave new world of evidence-based medicine homeopaths are having to work harder than ever to unravel or make sense of complex cases or challenging cases.

Miranda will present a carefully selected handful of cases from her own practice where the answers were not obvious and some of the solutions surprising. She will use these as a springboard to examine the successful application of philosophy and methodology in practice.

Learning objectives/outcomes:

- You will learn to question everything and to think outside all the usual boxes.
- How to review comparative materia medica with each remedy learnt.
- How to be a complete symptom sleuth.
- Increase your patient and practice management skills.
- Examine some key philosophical tenets from a contemporary perspective.
- Learn techniques for making sense of the many thousands of words from a long first appointment.

This will be a practical hands-on series with cases to work on in between webinars

There will be opportunity in each webinar for participation (is there?), and open times (or whatever you call them) for discussion - for Q and As.

"Teaching is part of a homeopathic continuum in my life - one where I stop along the path to reflect and re-evaluate where I am and share with others what I've learned. In the process I add to my own body of knowledge - and then move on to the next stage. The joy of homeopathy is that learning is a life-long process. Teaching allows me the pleasure of sharing that process with others on the path."
